

Report of One Day Seminar on 'The Role of Freedom Fighters in National Integration of India', organized by Department of History, A.M.B.S. Mahavidyalaya, Amarpur on 30/09/2019

As we know that United we stand, divided we fall, so unity and integrity is pivotal for our development either as an individual or a country as a whole. Truly speaking the main motto of the British expansion in India was dependent on their 'Divide and Rule Policy' by which they subjugated the whole Indian Peninsula for almost two centuries. But our freedom fighters did not stop their campaigns against the British Forces by the means of unity and integrity of India. Trio- revolutionaries Lal, Bal & Pal made their entries in the Freedom Struggle by their main theme as 'Swaraj' at any costs. As a matter of fact, they represented Punjab, Bengal and Maharashtra, which symbolized the National unity and Integrity of India. Many revolutionaries from different parts of Mother India crucified themselves to make India free from the bondage & slavery of the British.

Mahatma Gandhi addressed the people of India to be united only then they could defeat the British. Many freedom fighters irrespective of their castes, colours & creeds listened to the inner voice of Gandhi ji and 'Quit India' Movement was organized successfully. Even before that the Indians boycotted British goods and burnt British clothes on the eve of Non- Cooperation Movement. Subhash Chandra Bose also gave the slogan 'Give me blood, I shall give you freedom.' Everywhere all Indians were united and finally the British had to leave India forever and we got independence from the British dominion on 15th August 1947.

After getting freedom from British more than 500 Princely states were left on their choices either to integrate with India or with Pakistan or remain independent. At this present juncture, Sardar Vallabh Bhai Patel, the Iron Man of India played a very significant role in the national integration of India.

Therefore, it was decided by the department of A.M.B.S. Mahavidyalaya, Amarpur to organise a College-level Seminar on the topic on 'The Role of Freedom Fighters in National Integration of India'.
